The Pacific F2000 Championship Series is pleased to announce that for the balance of 2019 and into 2020, and for the foreseeable future, Alpinestars is now the official safety equipment supplier for the series. Founded in 1963 in Northern Italy, Alpinestars has long been known for technical innovation, superior European craftsmanship, excellent comfort and styling. Currently half of the teams in Formula 1 and all the teams in Formula E are equipping their drivers and pit crews in Alpinestars gear. This is undoubtedly due to the constant pursuit of perfection found at the top level of motorsport in the world.

Through this partnership Alpinestars and Pacific F2000 will bring its competitors new technical innovations, developments and special opportunities to equip themselves and team members with some of the best technical products in the world while improving competitors performance and safety.

This partnership should prove to be of great benefit to both Pacific F2000 and Alpinestars for many years to come.
